congregational music conflict and community is the first study of the music of the contemporary worship wars conflicts over church music that continue to animate and divide protestants today to be based on long term in person observation and interviews it tells the story of the musical lives of three canadian mennonite congregations who sang together despite their musical differences at the height of these debates in the late 1990s and early 2000s mennonites are among the most music centered christian groups in north america and each congregation felt deeply about the music they chose as their own the congregations studied span the spectrum from traditional to blended to contemporary worship styles and from evangelical to liberal protestant theologies at their core the book argues worship wars are not fought in order to please congregants musical tastes nor to satisfy the theological principles held by a denomination instead the relationships and meanings shaped through individuals experiences singing in the particular ways afforded by each style of worship are most profoundly at stake in the worship wars as such this book will be of keen interest to scholars working across the fields of religious studies and ethnomusicology in Sensational Devotion jill stevenson examines a range of evangelical performances including contemporary passion plays biblical theme parks holy land re creations creationist museums and megachurches to understand how they serve their evangelical audiences while shaping larger cultural and national dialogues such performative media support specific theologies and core beliefs by creating sensual live experiences for believers but the accessible familiar forms they take and the pop culture motifs they employ also attract nonbelievers willing to try out these genres even if only for curiosity s sake this familiarity not only helps these performances achieve their goals but it also enables them to contribute to public dialogue about the role of religious faith in america stevenson shows how these genres are significant and influential cultural products that utilize sophisticated tactics in order to reach large audiences comprised of firm believers extreme skeptics and those in between using historical research coupled with personal visits to these various venues the author not only critically examines these spaces and events within their specific religious cultural and national contexts but also places them within a longer devotional tradition in order to suggest how they cultivate religious belief by generating vivid sensual affectively oriented and individualized experiences thomas scirghi sj has trained priests deacons and lay ecclesial ministers in the art and theology of preaching for decades in longing to see your face he makes his insights and experience accessible to a much wider audience scirghi begins with a discussion of the purpose of preaching and offers a theological sounding on proclamation taking up several descriptions of the role of the preacher in relation to the congregation he also addresses current theological issues for the contemporary preacher the second part of the book discusses the practical matter of preparing to preach and proposes a method of preparation by following a pattern of reflection research writing and rehearsing the third part focuses on two specific sacramental celebrations funeral and weddings
